

THE LATIN AMERICAN COLLEGE OF VETERINARY DERMATOLOGY.

RESIDENCY PROGRAM: DERMATOLOGIA ESPECIALIZADA CVM, CDMX

This residency program will include the following, under constant supervised training according to the LACVD residency guidelines.

- (a) Number of cases per day: 12-18
- (b) Most frequent skin diseases: allergic skin disease (canine and feline), ear disease, infectious skin diseases, referred challenging cases (immune-mediated, and others)
- (c) Members of the work team that are not part of the Residency Program

We have a multi-specialty hospital associated to our clinic specialist include:

Soft tissue surgery

Neurosurgery

Orthopedic surgery

Emergency medicine

Neurology

Cardiology

Internal medicine

Feline medicine

Exotic pet medicine

(d) Your qualifications and the resident advisor/s qualifications

Galia Sheinberg:

Diplomate Latin American College Veterinary Dermatology

Small animal internal medicine and surgery specialty FMVZ UNAM

Medico Veterinario Zootecnista (DVM, equivalent) FMVZ UNAM

Craig Griffin

Diplomate American College of Veterinary Dermatology

DVM

Alberto Martin Cordero

Diplomate Latin American College of Veterinary Dermatology

Medico Veterinario Zootecnista (DMV)

(e) Distribution of vacation days

Residents are allowed 10 vacation days per year: plus, official national holidays.

(f) Possibility of off-clinic days

yes

(g) Equipment (microscopes, video-otoscope, CT, MRI, etc.)

Microscopes (3)

Videoscopes (4)

Cryosurgery

CT (in-house)

MRI (in-house)

Ultrasound

X-rays

In-house clinical laboratory

Surgery

(h) Access to microbiology or other laboratory services

Access to all services, specialized histopathology, microbiology, microbiome analysis, allergy testing.

(i) Additional facilities to complement your Residency Program.

Full working veterinary hospital (multiple specialties) advance equipment.

Here are some examples:

(a) Possibility to carry out research studies and publications, extensive experience.

(b) Possibility of acquiring a salary or subsidies or aid from laboratories- yes

(c) One full paid international dermatology congress (NAVDF, ESVD, WCVD, LSVD, CVDERM)

(d) Access to international journals and books- YES

(e) Residency Program will have tertiary educators to complement the resident's education.

Histopathology training

Immunology

Clinical pathology

Rotations will include rotations in the previously mentioned locations.

(f) Access to continuing education courses- YES

Online, and/or onsite.

(g) Travel/visit possibilities to other facilities/universities- YES

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

(a) The Residency Program will be carried out in Mexico City/Guadalajara Mexico and Animal dermatology clinic Las Vegas and other locations.

(b) Public transportation available

Housing not provided by the program and must be covered by the resident, pricing varies depending on location, Mexico City provides a wide variety of housing options.

Requirements for applicants

Licensed veterinarian from a recognized veterinary school program and licensed to practice in Mexico.

Three minimum years of clinical experience

Two letters of recommendation

Background check or criminal record letter

